Title: Joseph Ward of Dakota

Author: Durand George Harrison

This is an exact replica of a book. The book reprint was manually improved by a team of professionals, as opposed to automatic/OCR processes used by some companies. However, the book may still have imperfections such as missing pages, poor pictures, errant marks, etc. that were a part of the original text. We appreciate your understanding of the imperfections which can not be improved, and hope you will enjoy reading this book.

MANAGING EDITOR

416 LINCOLN HALL, URBANA, ILL.

Professor F. L. Paxson,
Madison, Wisconsin.

DEAR SIR:

Would it be possible for you to write for this journal a review (about words) of Durand, Joseph Ward of Dakota. The length of the review is left to your judgment.

If you consent, a copy of the book will be sent to you. If the review should reach me by January 20, 1915 it would be in season, for the March number.

Very truly yours,

CLARENCE W. ALVORD

All we have willed or hoped or dreamed of good, shall exist ;
Not its semblance, but itself: no beauty, nor good, nor power

Whose voice has gone forth, but each survives for the melodist
When eternity affirms the conception of an hour.

The high that proved too high, the heroic for earth too hard,
The passion that left the ground to lose itself in the sky,
Are music sent up to God by the lover and the bard :

Enough that he heard it once ; we shall hear it by and by

Browning:—“Abt Vogler”
