THE present work may be considered as in continuance of the 'First Letter Book of the East India Company' printed by Mr. Quaritch in 1893; but some changes have been made in the form of its production, the principal being that it has been thought advisable, firstly, to modernise the spelling of the manuscripts (except as regards place names, which are given as in the original, but with the modern name within brackets), and, secondly, to refrain from any attempt at annotating the introduction and glossary having rendered the latter unnecessary. The order in which the several documents appear in the original volumes has been followed, but it will be observed that those not always in strict sequence of date. As regards dates occurring in the body of the work, the 'old style' figures have been retained. Under this system, as is well known, the year was reckoned to commence on March 25.
