ROUND THE CALENDAR IN PORTUGAL.
ROUND THE CALENDAR
IN PORTUGAL.

BY
OSWALD CRAWFURD, C.M.G.,
HER MAJESTY’S CONSUL AT OPORTO;
AUTHOR OF "PORTUGAL: OLD AND NEW," "BEYOND THE SEAS," "SYLVIA ARDEN,"
"ENGLISH COMIC DRAMATISTS," ETC.

ILLUSTRATED BY MISS DOROTHY TENNANT, MRS. ARTHUR WALTER
MISS ALICE WOODWARD, MISS WINIFRED THOMSON,
MR. TRISTRAM ELLIS, MR. AMBROSE LEE,
AND THE AUTHOR.

LONDON: CHAPMAN AND HALL,
LIMITED.
1890.
[All rights reserved.]
Richard Clay & Sons, Limited,
London & Bungay.
CONTENTS.

INTRODUCTION.

Reasons for dwelling chiefly on rural themes and upon questions arising therefrom—Recent political excitement in Portugal is urban in its origin, and has not modified ways and ideas of rural folk  p. 1—8

MARCH.

First signs of spring in Northern Portugal—The song of the wryneck—The hoopoe—Oporto and its surrounding district—Climate—The east wind and singular phenomena connected with it—Description of the country side—The rivers and their fish—Heroic methods of fishing for trout—Return of spring migrants—The ornithology of Northern Portugal—The serin-finch: its curious habits—Indifference of natives to plain facts of rural life—Various Portuguese birds and plants—Daffodils of Northern Portugal  ...  ...  ...  ...  ...  ...  ...  ...  p. 9—31

APRIL.

Signs of advancing spring in the sea-fishing and in farm-life—First drinking of the wine made in the previous year—The “annual” wines of Portugal—Their resemblance to the wines of ancient Rome—Agriculture of the district—Yeoman farming—The prosperity of the farmers throughout the time of distress in Western Europe accounted for—Protection the ruling principle in Portugal—How it is a form of Socialism—The strong resemblance of rural life in Portugal to rural life in ancient Italy and Greece—Points of political economy involved  ...  ...  p. 32—50
Contents.

MAY.

The weather of early summer—Rural peasant games—Dancing and music of country people—Both Oriental in character—Anecdote—Bull-fighting in the Portuguese fashion minutely described ... ... p. 51—75

JUNE.

The folk-lore of Portugal as prevalent and as firmly accepted as in the England of Shakespeare's time—Its threefold sources: Latin, Moorish, and Gothic—The Eve of St. John—Many legends recounted of Moorish tradition—The Latin legends numerous also, viz., that of wehr-wolf—The folk myths from Gothic times perhaps derive chiefly from Aryan sources—Instances in each kind—Anthropomorphic and zoomorphic folk myths—Conclusions ... ... ... ... ... ... p. 76—101

JULY.

The harvesting of wheat, barley, and rye—Draught cattle of Northern Portugal: their beauty and docility—Kindness of Portuguese to all domestic animals—Legends connected with the ox—Dogs: how used in hunting, their breeds and treatment—Cats the favourite animal inmate of the Portuguese—The superior intelligence of Portuguese cats—Anecdote—Relations between man and the domestic animals from Cuvier's point of view—Cats versus dogs—Anecdote ... ... ... ... ... p. 102—122

AUGUST.

A theory to account for the tendency of men to migrate to the South and to the West—Anecdote—Strong art feeling among Portuguese peasantry—Why it has ceased from among other classes—Evidences of delight in art among rural folk—The pottery, peasants' lace work and embroideries, and the decorated ox-yokes of Northern Portugal—Devolution as opposed to Evolution—How it may apply to national life—Gardening in Portugal—Portuguese garden traditions derive from Dutch and from Arab sources—Contrast between English and Portuguese gardening—Anecdotes ... ... ... ... ... ... ... ... p. 123—152