A HAND-BOOK FOR VISITORS TO

OXFORD.

Illustrated by 145 Woodcuts by Jewitt, and 26 Steel Plates by Le Keur.

A NEW EDITION.

Oxford:
JAMES PARKER AND CO.
1875.
ADVERTISEMENT.

The object of the present volume is to furnish the visitor with a Handbook telling him in a few words the history of those buildings which will meet his eye in his walks about Oxford, and their chief points of interest.

It does not profess to be a History either of the University or of the City. As the name implies, it is intended more especially for the visitor to Oxford. At the same time, a certain amount of history has to be told in order to explain the buildings, but this is kept as far as possible subordinate to the description of the structures to which it is the purpose of the Handbook to draw the visitor's attention.

It has been thought advisable in this edition to extend the Introduction, giving an account of the present status and constitution of the University, and pointing out the increased facilities which are now afforded in all branches of study.

Oxford, 1875.